Notable Work of Portsmouth Against Lynchburg on Saturday.

NCREASE HITTING AVERAGE

Richmond's Promising Work. Boyd, in Right Field, Shows Up in Fine Style.

Richmond's former right fielder, and themliton, former third paseman of the same team. Both men are fact winning reputations for themselves with the Truckers, both in fielding and batting. Hamilton was especially weak with the willow while with the Lawmakers, but now with the Truckers he is handling the stick in the Truckers he is handling the stick in a manner that was entirely unexpected by those who knew him in his trial days with Richmond. In his fielding there is hardly perceptible change, for that was always up to standard.

Titman' is also playing a star game. As a base runner, he is one of the best in the league, and he rarely goes into a game without securing one or two hits. Why this change in the playing of the two men is not easily explained. Perhaps it was merely a determination to make

in the whole league, simply because after an unusual long run of a combination of hard luck and poor work, they have emerged from the shadow of the fans discontent and disapproval, and are now making themselves the cynosure of all eyes with the manner of their sensational recuperation. Saturday's game at Portsmouth was a contest between the big dog and the little dog, the team at the topround in the percentage ladder and the other team which is still holding its solitary position at the bottom; but before the end of the game the Truckers were masters of the field, and when evening came they had administered two severe beatings to the Lynchburgers.

came they had administered two severe beatings to the Lynchburgers.

Schumann pitched both games for Portsmouth, and his work both at the but and in the box was of the best variety. He had a handy mate in the shape of Edwards behind the bat, and the Shoemakers never got an earned run during whole eighteen innings. He the Saturday's Local Game. caused great disappointment to the large crowd that had turned out to see Richmond win. Things were going very favorably; the Lawmakers had brought in one run and had on their hitting clothes to bring in some more. Evans pitched again for Danville, and seemed to be in as good form as he was the day before. His peculiar delivery—is very effective. He has pienty of speed, and there is a sharp, sudden twist to his curves which will fool the batter nine times out of ten. He managed to strike out both Doran and Siebrie in the two games he has pitched, and he did his work at a lime that it was most needed. Doran and Siebrie are among Richmond's heaviest swatters, and it doesn't often happen that they are dismissed before getting to first base.

Boyd, the new acquisition in right field and who is now known among the fans as "Spider," is niready proving himself a sine qua non, and his position is secure. He is up to standard in the field, seems to be a consistent hitter, and as a baserunner he has no superior, if an equal, in the league. His kleptomaniac procivities are notable, and when he starts to purioin a bug it's almost a foregone conclusion that he will land it.

Drew pitched steadily and consistently, allowing one less hit than his opponent, Evans, who gave the Lawmakers four.

The Percentage Column.

in a score of M to 6 in favor of the "Tin Tops," in one of the most exciting games of this season. Josh Whitehead was in the box for the "Tin Tops," and held the visitors down to very few safe hits, many of their players coming to grief on first. Serrel Top Jones twirled for the Providentials" for three innings, and finding him to the "Tin Tops" was like getting money from home. In the fourth T. H. Jones took the box for the visitors and he proved a much easter spap than his predecessor, as the "Tin Tops" continued to send the borselide to all quarters of the field with much ease, while it sees without saying that the runs continued to pile up on the "Tin Tops" side.

Cousins, playing left-field for the "Tin Tops," made the star play of the game, running some distance and cytching a hot liner which he sent to first bringing two of the "Providentials" to very sudden grief.

The fans were out in full force, and but for having to call the game at the leave of the seventh inning the soor. den grief.

allowing one less hit than his opponent, Evans, who gave the Lawmakers four.

The Percentage Column.

Richmond seems to have herself secure in the third place in the percentage column, and is fighting hard to oust Norfolk from second. With consistent batting, which they now seem to be producing, the Lawmakers may hope to give Norfolk a hard tussle and eventually to win out. With regard to Lynchburg, the aspect takes on a more serious light. The Lynchburgers have a heavy lead with forty-nine games won and only tweaty-three lost, and there is no doubt but that they would die game should there be anything like a close contest between them and another team. Could one judge by present indications and future prospects, the first three positions will be occupied at the end of the season just as they are now; but baseball may be counted on as only one of the uncertainties of life, and any day may bring parts some good or evil of which the dhy before did not dream.

Reoves, at short-stop, is the fifth in the race for the top, his percentage being .895. McMahon, of Norfolk, is the leading third baseman. He has played in 50 games, put out 53 men, made 94 assists and 19 errors. His percentage is .945. Watson, of Roanoka, is a close second, with a percentage of .839.
Portsmouth has the honor of having the best short-stop, his percentage being .855, against the percentage of .939 by McKenzle, of Danville.
The club fielding gives Lynchburg the advantage. The percentage of the Richmond club is .946. Norfolk, Portsmouth, Danville and Roanoke follow in the order named.
The Richmond club has to its credit thirty-three double plays.
McMahon, of Norfolk, has the record for being the best slugger. He is credited with seven doubles, nine triples and one homer. That's not so very bad for one man to do.
At the end of the first two months Moser, of Lynchburg, had won sixteen games and lost one. Stanley, of Norfolk, had won eleven and lost two, and Still, of Richmond, had won ten out of thirteen.

Horses in Good Form,

Horses in Good Form,

The defent came before a record-breaking Saturday crowd. It had no mitigating circumstances behins which the partisans of the Gerken stable can find excuses. The horses never looked better, never acted better. The explanation of the downfall lies in the production of a sensational mare in Ringing Bells, and in the remarkable performances of The Youngster, whose brilliancy was a foil to the steadiness of Polly Prim.

It was small consolation to Mrs. Gerken that Shop Girl defeated New Market, owned by her closest rival, C. W. Watson, in the runabout class for the prize cup. That victory came early, and its memory was swallowed in the successive defeats which-followed.

The most speciacular event of the day was the contest for the cup for ladies' qualified hunters. Mrs. Dorothy Henderson and Miss Marion Holloway gave dashing exhibitions, the flance and brother of the latter watching every fense in this class with undisguised appreheasion.

How He Lost It.

How He Lost It.

A party of Kentuckians, including Senator Lindsay and a number of members of the House, were passengers on an east-bound train last fall on their way to attend the opening of Congress.

Before the party retired for the night, according to the American Spectator, the Schator had permitted them to partiake of the contents of a flask, which he returned with religious care to the depths of his dress suit case.

In the morning, as the train was wending its way through the Allegheny Mountains, a member of the party who had vison early perceived the Senator pacing up and down the alsie, an expression of disgust and dismay upon his genial countenance.

"What's the matter, Lindsay?" asked the other.

"Matter enough," was the reply; "why, I've lost the better part of my baggage."

"Lost or stolen?"

"Neither," said Senator Lindsay; "Landsay; "
